This document has been prepared solely for informational purposes and does not constitute an offer or recommendation to buy or sell any security or investment product or adopt any specific investment strategy in any jurisdiction. No BlueBay fund will be offered, except pursuant and subject to the offering memorandum and subscription materials for such fund (the "Offering Materials"). This document is for general information only and is not a complete description of an investment in any BlueBay fund. If there is an inconsistency between this document and the Offering Materials for the BlueBay fund, the provisions in the Offering Materials shall prevail. You should read the Key Investor Information Document, where applicable, or the Prospectus carefully before investing in any BlueBay fund. Recipients are strongly advised to make an independent review with their own advisors and reach their own conclusions regarding the investment merits and risks, legal, credit, tax and accounting aspects of all transactions.

Past performance is not indicative of future results.

The investments discussed may fluctuate in value and you may not get back the amount invested. The return may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations. There is no guarantee that the objectives shown will be achieved. Changes in rates of exchange may have an adverse effect on the value of investments. Investment in derivatives may involve a high degree of gearing or leverage, so that a relatively small movement in the price of the underlying investment results in a much larger movement in the price of the instrument, as a result of which prices are more volatile. The BlueBay products are subject to various other risk factors and conflicts of interest.

Any investor who proposes to subscribe for an investment in any of the BlueBay products must be able to bear the risks involved and must meet the respective products suitability requirements. No assurance can be given that the investment objectives will be achieved.

BlueBay products may be speculative and involve a substantial degree of risk. The products may be leveraged and engage in other speculative investment practices that may increase the risk of investment loss. An investor must realise that he or she could lose all or a substantial amount of his or her investment. The investments and strategies discussed here may not be suitable for all investors; if you have any doubts you should consult your investment adviser.

You should read the prospectus or offering documents carefully before investing in any BlueBay Strategy.

Investments in the BlueBay products may be highly illiquid and there may not be a secondary market for an investor's interest in the products, in which case none should be expected to develop. There are restrictions on transferring interests in the funds. The fees and expenses charged may offset the funds trading profits. The instruments in which the products invest may involve complex tax structures and there may be delays in distributing important tax information. The funds are not required to provide periodic pricing or valuation information to investors with respect to its individual investments.

While gross of fee figures would reflect the reinvestment of all dividends and earnings, it would not reflect the deduction of investment management and performance fees. An investor's return will be reduced by the deduction of applicable fees which will vary with the rate of return on the fund. For example, if there was an annualised return of 10% over a 5-year period then the compounding effect of a 0.60% management fee and a 0.20% performance fee would reduce the annualised return to 9.32% (figures used are only to demonstrate the effect of charges and are not an indicator of future performance). In addition, the typical fees and expenses charged to a fund will offset the fund's trading profits. A description of the specific fee structure for each BlueBay strategy is contained in the fund's prospectus.

Unless otherwise stated, performance data is unaudited and net of management, performance and other fees. The investments discussed may fluctuate substantially in value and you may not get back the amount invested. An investor's actual performance and fees may differ from the performance information shown due to capital contributions, redemptions or withdrawals. All investments involve risk including the loss of principal and there is no guarantee that the fund investment objectives will be achieved. You should read the prospectus carefully before investing in any BlueBay fund.

Net performance figures reflect the reinvestment of all dividends and earnings, and the deduction of investment management and performance fees. In addition, the typical fees and expenses charged to a fund will offset the fund's trading profits. The specific fee structure is detailed in the fund's offering materials and/or prospectus.

Any indices shown are presented only to allow for comparison of the BlueBay fund's performance to that of certain widely recognised indices. The volatility of the indices may be materially different from the individual performance attained by a specific fund or investor. In addition, the BlueBay fund holdings may differ significantly from the securities that comprise the indices shown. Investors cannot invest directly in an index.

Return objectives, to the extent they are provided, are used solely for illustration and discussion purposes and as an aid to prospective investors to evaluate a particular investment strategy. Such targets or objectives reflect the subjective input of the Investment Manager based upon a variety of factors, including but not limited to, the investment strategy and its prior performance, volatility measures, portfolio characteristics, risks and market conditions. Performance targets or objectives should not be relied upon as an indication of actual or projected performance. Actual volatility and returns depend upon a variety of factors. No representation is made any targets or objectives will be achieved, in whole or in part.
